According to ESG standards

30. June 2026

Monthly comment

On the one hand, the month of June was dominated by geopolitical developments; on the other, the focus was on the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) and its new chairman, Kevin Warsh. Both Iran and the U.S. signed a memorandum of understanding to end the war and thereby reopen the Strait of Hormuz, which is vital to the global economy. The financial markets reacted with relief, and the price of oil fell to levels seen before the war broke out. Contrary to the expectations of many market participants, the Fed left key interest rates unchanged; the brief statement accompanying this decision is generally interpreted as a sign of a more restrictive monetary policy.

In our fund, we remain invested in high-quality companies that serve as an anchor of stability, especially in uncertain times. In addition, we continue to use hedging strategies that are dynamically adjusted to market conditions.
